"Good fishing," says young William Julius Waldrop, Jr., of Shelby, North Carolina, one of the season's first and most successful fishermen there. Young William made this catch himself, having started fishing on his own hook last year.

Salem High Students Win High Honors In Dramatics, Journalism, Music Contest

Miss Ruth West, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy West, Best Individual Performer Among Casts of Thirteen Ohio High Schools

Salem High school students, competing in dramatic, journalistic and music contests Saturday, in northern Ohio cities, returned home with outstanding honors.

Ruth West, 16-year-old Salem High senior, received state recognition for individual performance in the Salem Thespians' presentation of their one-act play, "The Gypsy," in the second annual state high school drama festival at Western Reserve university at Cleveland.

Miss West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy West of Ohio, was adjudged the best individual performer in the group of students representing the 13 Ohio high schools which had gained the state festival as a result of eliminations in previous district contests.

Receives Medal

While named as a member of the all-state cast, Ruth was declared the best performer and was awarded an inscribed gold medal. As a result of her triumph, she may win a scholarship at Kent State university.

The medal was presented Miss West by Ernest Bayley of Cincinnati, secretary-treasurer of the Thespians, national dramatic honorary society.

Miss West, who also has won honors as a soprano soloist in school music contests, sang two arias from the opera, "Carmen," in her part of "The Gypsy."

She was assisted by James Benedict, Edward Cavanaugh and Joyce Malloy. Student manager was Sara Warner and the director, Miss Viola Bodo. Miss West is president of the Salem Thespians troupe.

Charlton and Xenia schools took first prizes in the play event. Salem captured the district event two weeks ago.

DOUBTS DAVEY'S RIGHT TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Taylor Asks Limbach To Check On Kent Man's Qualifications

DEWEY CLUB MAKES BOW IN COLUMBUS

Burton and White Tear Into New Deal and Into Each Other

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, April 29.—Arthur Limbach, Democratic state chairman, was asked today to inquire whether former Gov. Martin L. Davey seeking a third term nomination, was a qualified Democratic candidate.

The request was contained in a letter from John Taylor of Salem, a member of the anti-Davey Democratic forces during Davey's last term. Taylor principally opposed appropriation bills which he termed "exorbitant."

Taylor wrote that as a candidate for lieutenant governor he made the requested oath that he voted for a majority of Democratic candidates at the last general election, and asserted:

"It is a matter of general knowledge and belief that former governor Davey (whose political machine is quietly opposing me on the basis of 'disloyalty') did not support Democratic nominees. In fact, it is general knowledge that he went out of his way to defeat the Democratic state nominees."

"Therefore, I believe that you as state chairman should inquire of the secretary of state whether or not he (Davey) is legally eligible to have his name appear on the ballot as a Democrat."

Taylor also asked Limbach to check rumors that Davey discharged state employees who had declared their intention of supporting Charles Sawyer, the 1938 Democratic gubernatorial nominee. Sawyer defeated Davey after a bitter primary fight.

Thomas Dewey of New York, candidate for Republican presidential nomination, did not know the new Ohio club was to be formed in his behalf, said James R. Geren, its president.

STASSEN PLANS KEYNOTE TALK

Minnesota Governor Confers With G.O.P. Leaders In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Republican campaign tactics began crystallizing today with the arrival of Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota for conferences on his keynote speech to the party's national convention June 24.

The 33-year-old Stassen sought advice from party leaders in congress on expressions concerning foreign affairs, labor, agriculture, and other campaign issues.

He arranged a foreign conference with Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, house minority leader and the designated choice for permanent convention chairman. Then, a luncheon conference was on his schedule with Martin, Senators McNary of Oregon and Austin of Vermont, state minority leaders, and several other Republican senators.

Stassen also expected to see National Chairman John Hamilton, who has asked state delegations to select their candidates for the convention resolutions committee immediately for an early start on a party platform.

The resolutions committee ordinarily is not set up until after the convention opens. But Hamilton feels that the one or two days usually given to platform-framing are inadequate and induce snap judgment.

Receives Favorable Replies

Hamilton's appeal went out 10 days ago. He has received favorable replies from national committee members or state chairmen in Ohio and 21 other states.

Republicans will select 94 convention delegates this week to send their total to 528, or more than half the 1,000 total. Democrats will pick only 34 to raise their number to 362, a little more than a third of their 1,094 total.

Chief interest is centered on the Massachusetts presidential primary tomorrow, when 34 delegates will be elected by the two parties.

Representing the Salem auxiliary at the meeting were Mrs. Lloyd Robush, Mrs. Norman Kelly, Mrs. Clarence Taylor, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Charles Irey, Mrs. Rene Kenneweg, Mrs. Douglas Turner, Mrs. William Potts and Miss Lucile Sharp.

Hospital Day Observance Is Scheduled For May 12

Institutions Have Come Long Way Since Mallet Was Only Known Form of Anaesthetic

Surgery, from the time the eminent Egyptian physician gently but firmly rapped his patient on the head with a wooden mallet to render him unconscious during the operation to the present, has come a long way.

Evidence of the advance in medical treatment and care may be observed in the program carried out at the Salem City hospital which now is making preparations for the annual observance of Hospital day on Sunday, May 12.

To the general public goes out an invitation to visit the City hospital, inspect its equipment and learn of its methods of functioning.

Show Hospital Development

In an effort to give the public a brief, but informative view of the facilities of City hospital have compiled a series of articles on the development of hospitals.

They point out that it is known that crude hospitals existed as early as 437 B. C., in Ceylon, India. Hindu literature tells of the ap-

How to Conduct An Informal Tea — In One Easy Lesson

COLUMBUS, April 29.—It took Jack Bricker and two of his pet white rats to break the stiff formality of a Sunday tea at the governor's mansion.

All of the guests who came to greet Miss Marion Martin, Republican national committee woman from Maine, were chatting quietly until Governor John W. Bricker's son came downstairs.

The rats were hidden under his coat—that is, until they slipped out. While the women scrambled atop chairs, the men scrambled after the rats. Then the tea became an informal affair.

Haven't Halted German Drive, Berlin's View

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, April 29.—DNB today reported that heavy fighting was taking place between Nazi and Allied forces at several points in the Norwegian mountains.

The official German news agency, admitting for the first time that German progress in Norway was meeting increasingly stiff opposition said that the British in Norway, after their "failures" in past weeks, "obviously had received orders to strengthen their resistance," but the agency said the firmer British stand "had not halted" Nazi drives.

Admit Trawlers Lost

An admiralty communique acknowledged that two British trawlers, the Hammond and Larwood, had been lost to German bombs, but said there were no casualties.

It denied German claims that British warships and 13 transports had been sunk or damaged in the preceding 48 hours.

Germany's "determined attempt to render the waters of the Norwegian coast untenable have been attended with but slight results," the communique said.

In what the British described as a "very friendly" conference, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax and Italian Ambassador Giuseppe Bastianini on Friday discussed the resumption of trade talks.

Diplomatic observers said a British delegation might visit Rome soon.

Contraband Discussed

A source close to the foreign office said the question of contraband was included in the conference between Lord Halifax and Bastianini and added that the British are "anxious" to do their best to meet any points of difference "the Italian government can reasonably bring to our notice."

Above the Norwegian battle-grounds, British fighter planes were reported challenging German bombers which have been harassing allied forces in that German-invaded country.

The Norwegian Telegraph agency reported that German air attacks on British warships were repulsed and Allied transports were arriving daily.

COURT DOCKET LISTS 70 CASES

Pre-Trial Conferences Set; Grand Jury Resumes Sessions

LISBON, April 29.—A busy session is planned in common pleas court here this week, with approximately 70 cases assigned for pre-trial conference before Judge W. F. Lones today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The list has been prepared by Assignment Commissioner James G. Stevenson. All cases assigned must be disposed of when called. In the event that attorneys for the plaintiff in any of the cases fails to appear when the case is scheduled, the case will be dismissed, or if counsel for the defendant fails to appear, judgment by default will be taken.

Thursday will be arraignment day before Judge Lones when all those indicted by the grand jury will enter pleas, and their cases either disposed of, or bond set for trial later. It is expected that several more indictments may be returned by the grand jury which resumed its investigations this morning after making a partial report of 22 indictments last Wednesday.

Reconvened for an investigation of gambling in the county, several ministers of East Liverpool who signed a petition to city council asking a gambling probe, are expected to be called before the jurors, along with alleged numbers writers and possibly some East Liverpool council members.

First to be considered by the jury this morning was the fatal stabbing of Clarence Walker of East Liverpool, in a free-for-all fight near a beer garden at Calcutta on the morning of March 3, for which Robert Grimm of St. Clair township, is charged with manslaughter. The session is expected to last at least three or four days.

PSYCHOLOGICAL PUZZLE

Special efforts by German officialdom to defend what has been done in Norway and Poland make a psychological puzzle. The listener inevitably wonders what feelings of conscience or strategy of persuasion may lie behind such presentations as the documents which are supposed to justify invasion of the two countries.

Their value certainly does not consist in the effect they have abroad. Governments which are not sympathetic with Nazi methods feel no compulsion to assume there is any less propaganda in a "white book" than there is in the canard that Jews caused Germany to lose the World war. The viewpoint is shared by the vast majority of their citizens.

As for the record, the only thing that really matters there is the outcome of the war, not what was done here and there in the maneuvering for position. If Germany were to win the war it wouldn't need to excuse its invasion of Norway; if it loses no one but Germans would believe the excuse anyway. Twenty-six years after the event no one yet believes that Germany invaded Belgium to keep France from invading Belgium first, but that was—and still is—the official German version.

In other words, the only possible explanation for defending the Polish and Norwegian invasions is to carry on a process of rationalization for domestic effect. Even the most trusting Nazi must wonder, though, why the Allies aren't doing any better in Norway after all that planning which German secret agents discovered. Even inside Germany it must look suspiciously as though the German army had been planning the same thing either longer or better.

WHY BE A PIKER?

Martin L. Davey's demand for repeal of Ohio's sales tax confirms the impression that he is a politician of more than ordinary originality. Where else in the United States can a candidate be found this year who's promising to repeal a tax? The rest of them are stretching imagination when they promise not to raise taxes.

But why should Mr. Davey stop at the state sales tax? It is noxious. It is a pain in the neck. It is hard on the poor. It is everything Mr. Davey says it is. But it is different only in degree from other taxes. All of them are hated like poison.

Therefore, it would seem the part of an enterprising politician to come out four-square against all taxation. That would line up every Ohioan who wasn't lined up already by the prospect of sales tax repeal. Mr. Davey would be a cinch for the Democratic nomination for governor. If someone asked what would be substituted for taxes, do as Mr. Davey does. Tell them Ohio will cross that bridge when it's reached.

If someone then asked what that meant, refer them to Mr. Davey. He doesn't seem to know either.

BACKSEATERS

With more zeal than tact, some American commentators are nibbling in on the Allies' conduct of the Scandinavian campaign. It is apparent from the gist of their remarks that they think the British have been making plenty of mistakes.

Be that as it may, it is questionable policy for Americans to do any backseat driving. For one thing it contributes to a state of mind which never is admirable. For another thing it is downright rude.

More specifically, it isn't good for Americans, who hope to keep out of the war, to criticize the way it is being fought. First thing they know, some of them will be wanting to demonstrate how it should be done. Then there's the possibility, always lively where backseat drivers are concerned, that the driver will turn around and say, "Here, Mac, if you're unhappy, you take it the rest of the way." That would be embarrassing.

MORAL IN A CAPSULE

Fritz Thyssen, son of Germany's great steel tycoon, nursed a grudge against the proletarian movement. He nursed it until it grew up and was called Adolf Hitler. The plan was for Hitler to save Herr Thyssen's industrial empire from all harm.

One day Herr Thyssen woke up to the fact Hitlerism was bigger than capitalism, which had spread its protecting wings over him. To stifle a revolution Thyssen encouraged a counter-revolution—and the counter-revolution got out of control.

It is a sad story, presenting a moral in a capsule to all businessmen who dream of raising up little Caesars to do their bidding. Herr Thyssen is understandably indignant. He has lost his prestige, his shirt and a place to sit down comfortably. It would be more tactful of him not to cry about it at this late date. He backed the wrong horse, but he had his eyes wide open when he did it.

SWEET MYSTERY OF LIFE ITEM

Italy sells four destroyers to Sweden for use in case of emergency. The sale is P. O. B. The Swedes are responsible for delivery.

Against the Allies or Germany, or even Russia, which also might be the cause of an "emergency," four destroyers would be as effectual as a handful of marbles thrown at an armored car. Sweden isn't going to be saved by four destroyers.

But to Germany, which probably didn't have more than 48 destroyers when the war began, four more would be a windfall if they happened to fall into German hands—in case that emergency happened.

To Italy, which has the world's third largest destroyer fleet, four destroyers mean almost nothing, particularly four old ones. To the Allies, furthermore, four destroyers aren't important.

Only to Germany are they conceivably of any actual importance, which suggests an interesting possibility. If Italy now proceeds to sell a battleship to Latvia, suspicions will be thoroughly aroused.

MAN OF THE YEAR

Ordinarily, the coal man can be shut out of mind by the middle of April. He has had his day.

But this year at the approach of May the question of that extra ton—to get it or to risk not getting it—is still acute.

Weather is much with us. The coal man is much with us. He has been a silent partner in the preservation of civilization since early last September—eight long months.

He is a candidate, in fact, for the man of the year. Before it is too late—in the hope that it soon will be too late—his staunch admirers might as well tell him to send out one more ton. Maybe next winter will be mild.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, April 30

AN EVENTFUL day, with affairs moving at high tempo, is predicted from the predominant planetary configurations. The movement will descend with sudden and possibly revolutionary force, causing change of plans and objectives if not environment, and attended by unforeseen hazards. However, the general trend is toward a rampant spirit of initiative and definite purpose, with the forces and faculties under excellent stimuli for achievement and success. A parallel situation of excitement and commotion is found in private affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an extremely lively and an exciting year, with much of the surprising and unpredictable maturing in connection with new plans and great ambitions. These, while spurred by high pressure, energies and initiative, carry unforeseen perils, but managed with forethought, bold initiative and acumen, should bring splendid results. In social, domestic and romantic affairs similar high tension and satisfaction may be anticipated. It is promising for well-directed and resolute action.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, ambitious, dynamic and indomitable, although probably restive and erratic. Its splendid energies and facilities assure it marked success and much personal prestige and happiness.

Carelessness Is Blamed
In Many Cases Of Cancer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF CANCER were personified as a public enemy and tried in each case of death as a defendant, it would probably be surprising to find how often a fair-minded jury would discharge it as not guilty. It is not so much cancer itself that is responsible for the calamity, but the ignorance and carelessness, neglect and dilatoriness on the part of the person who has what might be an early cancer.

Such imaginary trials have been recounted by Dr. Russell S. Ferguson, of the New York State Cancer Commission. In one case "a good friend" advised Mrs. B. not to undergo an unnecessary operation but to take some serum injections.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

against her doctor's advice. The verdict of the jury was that Mrs. B. was slain by good intentions.

Ignorance and Neglect

In another trial, the doctor said, "I advised Mr. A. when the ulcer on the skin of the face was still small and harmless to have it eradicated, but he refused all treatment. When I was called two years later, his condition was beyond medical help." The jury's verdict was that Mr. A. died of ignorance and neglect.

The doctor said in the case of Mrs. D. "I attended her at childbirth and afterwards called attention to an injury and advised her to undergo a simple operation. She ignored my advice." The jury's verdict was that neglect and fear were the real culprits.

These stories indicate that the most important thing for the public to know is the natural history of cancer.

A cancer consists of the sudden growth of cells in a certain place in the body. What makes these cells start to grow we do not know. It is not contagion or infection because another person can be exposed to them without ever catching cancer.

An old theory was that they were embryonal rests, that is to say, very young cells which remained in a body in a pre-natal condition until it was adult, and then suddenly began to grow. We must, at any rate, think of these cells as being ear-marked or tagged either by heredity or in some other way, for sudden growth from their very beginning. They are young and vigorous. In the beginning, however, they are all local. Later on they get out into the lymph stream and blood vessels of the body and begin to grow at other places (metastases); when this happens, treatment is almost hopeless.

Irritation, as by an old fang of a tooth or a broken pipe stem, may start cells to grow.

Knowing these facts, we can understand what treatment is seasonable. When the growth is localized, surgery can remove it and the cells which are disposed to grow are taken away from the body. The cells, being young, if left alone, will overcome the more sluggish adult cells of the rest of the body. But, being young, they are sensitive to destruction by agents that will not hurt adult cells except in large doses.

The most reliable agent is the peculiar ray that is given off from radium or the x-ray machine. This ray is selective and kills cancer cells, leaving other cells alone.

Questions and Answers
E. P.: "What causes finger and thumb-nails to die? Should they be removed and will others come in their place?"

Answer—An infection either with fungus (ringworm) or pus infection. Other nails grow in after removal if the nail bed is not destroyed.

The CAIRO GARTER MURDERS

Major Bruce Kilgour, of the British Intelligence Service, enlists the aid of Captain Hugh North, of the U. S. Army Intelligence in solving several puzzling murders in Cairo. The police believe the killings are connected with gun-running activities in Egypt. The killer is known by the pseudonym of "Mr. Armstrong." Aboard the S. S. Fort Lucknow enroute to Cairo, Kilgour and North act as strangers. It has been arranged that North sit at the Captain's table with an interesting group whose acquaintance might prove valuable in the future. It consists of M. Levesseur, a sardonic Frenchman; Dr. Larkin Ladd, Egyptologist and head of Lawrence College in Cairo, and his lovely daughter, Lolita; her friend, Dairde Clark; Richard Follonsbee, salesman for Heinemann and Schlager, arms manufacturers (Follonsbee claims he sells "sewing machines and reapers"); an exotic beauty, Natika Black, and Monsieur Phillipe, retired president of the Italo-Hellenic Chemical Works which manufacture poison gas. Zara, Dr. Ladd's wife, is too ill to join them. After dinner, Follonsbee, obviously perturbed about something, asks North to visit him in his cabin later. After dinner, North goes on deck where he meets Dr. and Mrs. Ladd. They go to the Bacchante Room for liquors. There North hears Natika Black conversing with Phillipe in the balcony. Further on, Lolita sits with Follonsbee and an Egyptian named Ben Yamen Hasid Pasha. Zara's personality puzzles North. Her features are strong though delicately molded, and her wide cheek line tapered to a small dimpled chin. She wore a knitted dress instead of an evening gown and stockings. Just then Natika and Phillipe join the group with the body of a German named Wolff was found in the desert. The man had been dead for weeks. Follonsbee turns white. "I have a letter to Wolff," he said thickly. A discussion of the risks of gun-running followed, during which Zara makes her apologies and retreats. The party breaks up. Shortly after North goes to Follonsbee's cabin. He finds it in wild disorder. In the bottom of the bathtub lay Follonsbee—bound and gagged—shot through the stomach and a garter on his arm. He rambles. "Confidential—Talcum—shot me—Watched—Laughter—Millions in it—Foot em—A lot of money—She was beautiful—Cruel Blue hand" and dies. Searching for clues, North finds two small pieces of cloth and a note reading: "Major Kilgour. Stick this in your pipe. Better get right." A knock comes to the door. North is relieved to see Kilgour. The Englishman is stunned at the news of Follonsbee's death. He had just received a cable from Scotland Yard that the salesman was an Englishman and that Heinemann and Schlager had chartered a freighter, the Lydia, which is loaded with ammunition for the Arabs. Follonsbee's muttered "Talcum" leads the detectives to a can of powder in which they discover a code for all war implements; grenades were called "butcher knives" and "three-inch nails" indicated 38-caliber pistol ammunition, etc. In the lining of a suitcase, they find the dead man's credentials. Just then, the state-room's door handle rattles. "Hide!" whispers Kilgour. "We must not be seen together." The newcomer is Major Stag Melborne, soldier of fortune. He admits he had an appointment with Follonsbee to discuss gun-running. Stag and Kilgour leave the cabin.

CHAPTER XIII
Inside the late Richard Follonsbee's door, Captain North stepped considerably beyond his usual five minutes, then stepped out into the corridor. Very quickly he assumed a casual pose though he imagined a shadow had whisked around an adjacent corner. Listening, he caught the infinitely soft thud-thud of retreating feet. Now who the devil could that have been? With all his perceptions attuned to their most delicate sensitivity, North strolled out to the main staircase with the intention of regaining his cabin. At this hour, 1:45 a. m., the Fort Lucknow seemed a deserted ship.

Never had Hugh North been less at ease. Had he been recognized, or had the prowler below fled without making an observation? No dodging the fact that this affair of the garter murders was momentarily assuming most serious possibilities; too much money was involved to keep the matter inconsequential.

Moodily he reviewed the situation to date. Regarding evidence wasn't too badly off. Ah, that bit of cloth, how much would it disclose? And the garter? Surely something of interest could be deduced from evidence so bizarre.

A weird wrinkle, Mr. Armstrong's Order of the Cairo Garter. In his mind North pictured acquaintances made since boarding the liner. Levesseur, sardonic and careful of his words. M. Phillipe, who said he waxes merely a retired business man; that oddly assorted couple, Dr. Larkin Ladd and his wife. Then there was Natika Black whose smooth girl's face screened a depth of experience betrayed through her eyes. And what of Ben Yamen Hasid Pasha, Melborne and Dairde Clark?

North turned into the passageway leading directly to his cabin. Shrouded in the passageway's gloom someone was standing in front of his cabin, hand on knob. For the life of him he could not decide whether his door had been opened or not.

"Ah, Captain North!" Natika Black still wore her white evening gown but had cast a jade-colored shawl over her shoulders. Certainly it formed a successful contrast to her red-brown hair. She gave him a cool, entirely matter-of-fact nod and declared, "Everywhere I have been looking for you. Are you not flattered? I even bribed a steward to show me your cabin."

"I am flattered and a little puzzled, too," was his startled admission. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"Yes, mon capitaine, you can give me something to drink and talk to me. I—I am uneasy, wakeful." Her reply was made without a trace of embarrassment and an appealingly frank smile curved her brilliant lips.

"In that case—" As if to bridge the delicacy of the moment, the Fort Lucknow plowed through a particularly vicious series of combers and sent Natika Black reeling sideways into the steady arms of Captain North.

"We seem to be running into a pretty bad squall," he remarked drily.

"You would be sweet if you'd let me take refuge in your cabin—until the squall passes," Natika remarked, emitting that which sounded remarkably like a giggle. "I'm afraid I'd turn an ankle—or ruin a pair of evening slippers. I'll go as soon as the sea lessens, really I will."

"By all means come in, Miss Black; only you won't find my quarters very luxurious."

Once the lights were on, Natika Black seated herself in an easy chair, quietly inspecting his cabin and his single battered suitcase with its plethora of weatherbeaten hotel labels.

"You seem to have been everywhere."

"Been about some, Miss Black, but never to Egypt," North bent over his bag.

"For what are you looking, Monsieur le Capitaine? Natika switched suddenly into French, both musical and flawless. "Perhaps you look up your valuables?"

He grinned at her over his shoulder. "Au contraire. I produce them," he said, holding up a bottle of liqueur.

He deemed it wise to postpone the introduction of leading questions as he studied her to the last detail.

"How she kept her hands, how she did her fingernails and how carelessly she smoothed rather full skirts over her knees. Full skirts? Under such an arrangement a girl might risk wearing decorated garters!"

For some moments this alluring young woman merely sat smoking her cigarette and viewing her vis-à-vis with candid curiosity. North took another sip of liqueur, savoring its delicate bouquet.

"You are," Natika murmured at last, "as unusual as I had hoped, mon ami."

"Unusual?"

"Yes. You have not talked for many minutes yet you have been good enough to appreciate the care I devote to my person." Pretty she tilted her head sideways. "I like you—you have asked no questions."

"Merri. But 'one still wonders what M. Phillipe would say were he to pop up through a crack in the floor."

She sat up very suddenly. "I do not like Monsieur Phillipe. I am polite to him merely because he was once a friend of my father." And she spoke with such force that he was inclined to credit the statement.

"He is too rich—too self-assured. Dieu! Save me from the arrogance of the very rich! It is pure coincidence that we travel by the same boat, even more so that we sit at the captain's table!"

"Then we won't let him pop up through the floor!"

"You delightful idiot!" Natika smiled over the rim of her glass. "Why do you look so worried?"

"Your name. It intrigues me. You speak Greek like a native—and you might be one," North said. "But Black surely is not a Greek name?"

"Surely not," she admitted. "I am not Greek, I am English. I see you do not believe me, but it is so."

"Of course I believe you," he insisted after taking a sip of the liqueur. "Still, you must admit that you do not talk, act or dress like an English girl. You even have a trace of accent."

Very white teeth glinted to her light little laugh. "My father died when I was very, very young and I was brought up by my mother's people. I hope you will not like me any the less for it."

"On the contrary, mademoiselle," he continued in French, "you have the added attraction of the unfamiliar."

During the course of a conversation covering many subjects, he perceived this enigmatic young woman to be uncommonly well-informed. She had, it came out, been everywhere in Europe and the Near East and it was a revelation to hear her mention names which were headline commonplaces.

"It is no doubt natural that you should wonder why I came here, mon capitaine."

"As a Chinese friend of mine observes, 'Curiosity is the most human and admirable of failings.' Surely it is not your custom to go calling at one P. X.?"

"It is not," she stated with such a touch of coldness he again debated whether she had surprised her in the act of entering or of leaving. Again, suppose she had, as he insisted, merely caught at the doorknob to steady herself?

"I like you, Captain — she reverted to English—"and when I like people I tell them so; as readily as I do if they displease me. I wonder if you'd be good enough to answer a few questions and may I assure you they are not prompted by mere impertinence or idle curiosity?"

He made no reply, merely flicked the ashes from his cigarette and continued to watch her expression.

"Have you heard that an English army intelligence officer is aboard?"

It was a good act Hugh North put on. "An intelligent English officer? I'd love to see one. With the French or Italians during the war you could do something—they'd listen to a new idea, but to an Englishman—"

"You are sure you do not—" She hesitated and picked a bit of tobacco from the tip of a pink tongue. "That is—you are traveling for pleasure?"

"You are quite right, Miss Black. I'm on vacation from a stupid—er—law firm. My title is merely a courtesy one, a holdover from army days."

"Oh, a lawyer," North could read an evident relief. "That is good. Lawyers are so—so flexible—one might say." She was leaning forward now. "Then in Cairo you will only amuse yourself?"

"Exactly! And with as charming companions as fortune sends my way. I've had a very strenuous year, Miss Black. You can understand why I'm eager to find a sympathetic, lively someone."

She bent still further forward her eyes wide and large. "Suppose it were possible to have just such a holiday and to make a good deal of money, besides?"

"My dear girl, I won't deny I'd be delighted," said he.

You'll be No. 1 in the Hit Parade!
Look at Buick First...you can afford it and you can't know what your 1940 money ought to buy until you've seen this really modern automobile.

YES sir, something pretty special happens when you turn the ignition switch, and drive away for the first time in your very own 1940 Buick.

In that little act, you get a years-long jump on the other fellow. You step out in a car that is not only 1940's biggest news but the pattern for many a season to come.

Style? Just look the others over and see how they mirror the trend Buick began a good twelve months ago!

Size? Just try to find a car as long as Buick, bumper to bumper, for the same money—or one with a frame as husky and rigid.

Comfort? Performance? Appointments?

No one else on the highway has soft, gentle coil springs all around that never need lubrication, with the steady rolling firmness of torque-tube drive.

No one else gives you a gas-thrifty Dynaflex valve-in-head straight-eight engine, much less a power plant electro-balanced after assembly.

No one else has a Two-Way Direction Signal with automatic cut-off—or standard equipment so complete that even a lock for the gas tank is included in the price.

The Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996

And with the whole range of Buick's six dozen 1940 features you'll be No. 1 in the automotive hit parade, leading the way in a car that will still be full of big news many a season hence.

You'll be driving a Buick, staunch and solid in its tested metal, fashioned with Buick craftsmen's skill, a car you can count on to keep its value, lose mighty little through either use or depreciation.

And the price? Unbelievable as it sounds, the Buick SPECIAL carries a price lower than some sixes—which spells "buy" in any man's language. Why not learn more from the nearest Buick dealer?

"Best buy's Buick!"

Pontiac Exhibit Is Prepared For 1940 World's Fair

It's world's fair time again and the winter-long work of a group of Pontiac motor division dramatic engineers on the 1940 Pontiac exhibit is drawing to a close.

Featuring the new exhibit will be a full-size, full-weight Pontiac chassis rotating gently end-over-end while suspended from mirrored pylons.

The exhibit is the work of J. H. Baker, head of Pontiac's chart and display department, and his crew of assistants. Their responsibility also is the exhibit's "book" motor which is split lengthwise into three parts which open and close like the leaves of a book as the motor rotates on a base.

Marvels of workmanship, the rotating chassis and the "book" motor are the toughest assignments that Baker's department ever has tackled. The Fisher body exhibit at the World's fair will feature the Pontiac "glass" car—the one wholly transparent car ever made in America.

Pontiac also will display in General Motors' "Streets of the Future" its regular line of sixes and eights. When the 2,000,000th Pontiac comes off the assembly line late in May it is slated for a prominent position in the exhibit.

$30,000 IN PRIZES TO BE AWARDED

48 University Scholarships, World's Fair Trips Listed

Through the E. L. Grate Motor Co. local representative, the Ford Good Drivers league, headed by Edsel Ford, today announced plans for a nation-wide driving contest, for boys of high school age.

Prizes totalling $30,000 will be awarded, consisting of 48 university scholarships, 96 free trips to the New York World's fair, and championship cups to state and national winners.

Edsel Ford has this message to American boys:

"To all boys who have arrived at driving age—The Ford Good Drivers league is your organization. Its purpose is to help make a nation of better drivers. We think one of the best ways to do this is to start with boys who are now forming their driving habits.

Logical Leaders

"You are the logical ones to take the lead in this movement. If you will join in an agreement to learn expert driving, couple it with care, courtesy and common sense, and influence others to do the same, you will help save thousands of lives.

"You have the physical equipment, in eyesight, coordination and quickness of response, to become the best drivers on the road. In time you can raise driving standards to a higher level than this country has ever seen. The present bad accident record among young drivers undoubtedly is due to thoughtlessness and carelessness.

We believe your influence and example as a member of the league, can create among all boys a greater sense of the responsibility that goes with driving.

"Through the Ford Good Drivers league, with your help, we hope to carry out an interesting and useful program which will supplement the fine work being done by all other good driving movements."

Eligible for membership in the league is any boy who is a resident of the United States, who is qualified and legally authorized to drive a car in his home state, who is at least 14 years of age, whose 19th birthday is not earlier than Aug. 29, 1940.

Open to All Boys

The make of car owned or driven by an entrant or his family does not matter. The league is for all boys eligible under the four requirements stated above.

To enroll for membership all you need to do is fill out and sign an official enrollment blank and mail it to the Good Drivers league, Dearborn, Mich. As soon as your enrollment blank is received, you will be sent a membership card, a lapel membership button and a copy of the league's 64-page book "How to Become a Skilled Driver."

By Ray W. Sherman you will also receive immediately full details and entry blank for the nation-wide driving contest, which is open only to members of the league.

Enrollment blanks may be procured from the Grate Motor Co.

Persons who want anything, know The News is the Want Medium in this vicinity. So read it.

ABOVE—Fleet of four Dodge Job-Rated half-ton panel trucks operated by the Spector Motor Service, Inc., of Chicago as "Highway Samaritans." BELOW—James G. Hayden (left), fleet and traffic engineer of the National Safety Council, gives some pointers on safety to members of the emergency service first aid squad who will patrol the highways day and night with these trucks to give assistance to any motorist or truck operator who may need it.

Fully equipped for any emergency and manned by drivers specially trained in safety and first aid methods, four new half-ton Dodge job-rated panel trucks just placed in operation by the Spector Motor Service, Inc. of Chicago will range the roads of half a continent in the new roles of "Highway Samaritans."

With bodies painted white; hoods and wheels a bright red with black running boards and lettering, these emergency first aid trucks will patrol the routes between St. Louis, Mo., Chicago, New York, Boston, Bridgeport, New Britain, New Haven and other points on the Atlantic seaboard traversed by the great fleet of Spector Motor Service freight haulers.

Operated by three shifts of drivers, the trucks will be on the road day and night to offer assistance, not only to the Spector trucks but to any motorist or other truck operator who may need it. The inauguration of this "Highway Samaritan" service is the latest, and regarded as one of the most impressive moves in a prolonged and determined effort of the trucking industry to cooperate with and win the approbation of the motoring public.

Each of the emergency first aid trucks is equipped with a first aid kit, stretcher, flares, lights, fuses, fire extinguisher, crowbar, shovel spade and a complete set of tools for making tire and mechanical repairs on any make of car or truck.

The drivers are expert mechanics and before being assigned to patrol duty are given a course in first aid and safety practice under the supervision of the National Safety Council and American Red Cross.

Check with the E. H. Althouse Motors and learn more about Dodge products.

Both heroine and menace in the story are played by a woman never seen, heard or spoken to in the entire film. Rebecca is dead before the story opens and yet the mood and action of the story are dependent upon her.

The unforgettable characters of the book become vividly human on the screen in a story that has been called the most outstanding mystery novel of recent years.

Excellent performances by George Sanders as the blackmailing Pavell, Judith Anderson as the sadistically cruel housekeeper, and C. Aubrey Smith, Nigel Bruce, Florence Bates and Gladys Cooper give strong support to the two stars.

Enrollment blanks may be procured from the Grate Motor Co.

TIME TO PLAN THE WARDROBE

And Paris Cleaners Will Help You Prepare For Summer

Generally speaking, a little foresight and planning, with the co-operation of the Paris Cleaners, will give you a start, at this time of the year, toward a warm-season wardrobe.

In most households the annual spring housecleaning process is underway. Wardrobes are being adjusted, cupboards and presses are being cleaned out and accumulations of clothing and household appearances are being weeded out.

In nearly every instance, there is something of value to be retained in the apparel line, needing only the expert touch of the Paris Cleaners to make it new, fresh, and readily wearable again.

New styles and fashions, particularly in men's garments, permit a pretty wide leeway in the matter of matching. As a result, you'll find, very likely, that the Paris Cleaners will enable you to approach the summer season with an economy program lined up.

The Paris Cleaners are masters of their art. If there is any quality at all in the garment, they will be able to bring it out to best advantage.

Brooklyn Heads West, Boasting Unbeaten League Record

DODGERS FACE REAL TEST ON WESTERN TOUR

Brooklyn Is Riding Crest Of Eight-Game Winning Streak

BY JUDSON BAILEY

A baseball whirlwind that was stirred up in Brooklyn and has swept ruthlessly through the east will strike toward the western clubs of the National league today—and whether it is just a zephyr or an honest-to-goodness cyclone should be known in short order.

The Dodgers have won eight straight games for the best winning streak at the start of the season any major league club has had since 1916, when the New York Giants won their first nine.

The Dodgers may be pennant prospects and they are if they can win or even break even against the western clubs.

Stop Giants

They subdued the New York Giants 5-3 yesterday before a howling, cheering crowd of 51,659 in the Polo Grounds with a two-run homer by Dolph Camilli in the ninth inning turning the trick. Whit Wyatt was given spectacular support afield.

Young Gene Thompson chucked a five-hitter at the Pittsburgh Pirates and Ernie Lombardi hit a homer and three singles for a perfect day, at bat as the Cincinnati Reds triumphed 8-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals finally showed some of the power which made them contenders a year ago and tripped the Chicago Cubs 7-5. The Cards had to use two pitchers with Clyde Shoun getting credit for the victory.

The Boston Bees broke into the win column at last with a 3-2 squeeze past the Phillies on a smart seven-inning pitching performance by Lefty Joe Sullivan.

Indians Win

The pace-making Cleveland Indians of the American league withstood a challenge by the Detroit Tigers and won 11-9 in the tenth inning of Hal Trosky's two-run circuit club.

In two other overtime games in the American league Sunday, the Boston Red Sox were forced 12 innings to nose out the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 after taking a three-run lead in the first frame, and the Washington Senators handed the New York Yankees their third straight defeat 3-2 when Gene Walker singled George Case home in the tenth.

The St. Louis Browns piled up 17 hits, including a three-run homer by Walt Juhnich, in beating the Chicago White Sox 11-8.

Umpire Uncensored For Pulling Knife

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 29.—Umpire Bill Wilson is "licked to death" because Alvin Gardner, Texas league president, decided not to censure him for pulling a knife in a dispute at Fort Worth Thursday. "I've thrown that knife away," he said. "I lost my head. I've apologized to all concerned and I hope it will soon be forgotten."

Wilson, league secretary, said that both Wilson and the San Antonio players who rushed him to dispute a decision "erred but the players made the first mistake."

KENMORE, N. Y.—Edwin O. Blodgett didn't like to get out of bed to shut the window, so he developed an automatic opener and closer. A concealed button at the head of his bed performs the task, and a small electric motor from an old vacuum cleaner is the modus operandi.

FELLER FACES TIGERS TODAY

Tribe Wins, 11-9, Over Detroit In Extra-Inning Contest

DETROIT, April 29.—Bob Feller goes Tiger hunting today in an effort to atone for being knocked out of the box by Detroit last week and to keep the rampaging Cleveland Indians on top of the American league heap.

A barrage of home runs treated the Sunday crowd here as the Tribe defeated the Tigers 11 to 9 to continue in first place.

The speed-balling Feller figures to keep them there for the beat Detroit six times in a row last year.

Everything happens to Henry Fippen. He pitched a good game against Johnny Allen's victorious season debut. And now he gets the call against the fireballer again.

In the home run show the Indians rolled along comfortably to an 8-to-2 lead in eight innings. Roy Weatherly hit a homer off Schoolboy Rowe in the first inning.

Barney McCoskey, first Tiger to face Al Milnar, hit another. Jeff Heath connected with one for the Indians in the seventh.

The Tigers scored six runs to tie the game in the ninth, in the course of which McCoskey planted his second smash in the outfield stands.

Hal Trosky broke up the game in the tenth with a drive high into the upper deck, scoring with Ben Chapman, who had singled.

Al Smith, Cleveland rookie, who pitched the last inning, received credit for the victory.

TWO-TEAM RACE SEEN FOR ORIO TRACK LAURELS

Cleveland East Tech and Columbus North Again Leading Squads

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS, April 29.—Another nip-and-tuck battle for the state high school track and field championship loomed today for the May 24-25 classic, with Cleveland East Tech and Columbus North in the leading roles just as they were a year ago.

In the 1939 competition East Tech nosed out North by the slimmest margin in the meet's history, 351-6 to 35. Saturday East Tech continued its winning ways by amassing 78 points to cap the 14th annual Mansfield relays, 48 points ahead of second place Cleveland East, winner of the 1939 meet.

Win Wesleyan Meet

Columbus North counted 331-3 points to annex the Ohio Wesleyan team relays title for the second straight year, 10-3 ahead of second place Springfield, and 111-3 in front of always strong Toledo Scott.

East Tech grabbed seven first places and tied for another at Mansfield. Five seconds, three thirds and a fourth place helped swell their total.

Wrist watches went to the individual and relay team winners of all Mansfield events, and "Chet" Thomas, East Tech's state dash champion, had four at the finish. He copped the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the broad jump, and anchored the 880-yard relay team to a new meet record.

Breaks State Record

Harold Lane of East Tech grabbed both the high and low barrier races at Mansfield, while Bob Shaw, Fremont's all-Ohio grid and basketball star, rounded out the dual winners with victory in the discus and shot put, the latter with a 54-foot heave which eclipsed both the meet and state records.

At Delaware, where all events were on a team basis, Columbus North finished on top by winning the 440 and 880-yard relays, along with two seconds, three thirds, two fourth places and a tie for fifth.

Xenia's O. S. and S. O. home won the Class B crown at Delaware, ending Upper Arlington's four-year reign. The defending champs scored only six points.

Late Comers Fail In A. B. C. Events

DETROIT, April 29.—The theory that late comers enjoy an advantage in American Bowling Congress tournaments isn't working out so well in the present revival of the pin classic.

Keglers scheduled late in the tournament were supposed to profit from the "softening" of new alleys but only five of the 160 teams which bowled during the week-end topped the 2800 mark.

Frank Pcllak, 28-year-old bank teller of Bradock, Pa., created the only change among the leaders in Sunday's rolling, firing 715 for a sixth place tie in the singles.

Wittenberg Ace Out

Tiffin, April 29.—A fractured leg has benched Cliff Haskett, star outfielder on Wittenberg college's baseball team and a 300-point man in the last basketball season.

He suffered the injury Saturday while sliding into second base during the Wittenberg-Heidelberg game, won by his teammates, 8 to 2.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Tattle tales: Since winning the masters' tournament, Jimmy Demaret is signing some of his letters merely "The Master."

Indianapolis, shy of right-hand hitters, is trying to get Vince DiMaggio from the Reds. . . . Looks like Louis vs. Godoy for Detroit in June. . . . Col. D. Walker Wear, one of the New York boxing commissioners, is black balling the fight here because the last two Louis engagements "were unsatisfactory."

Faithful Follower

Jimmy Wassell of the Senators went to High school with Jesse Owens and spent four years running second to him. . . . Out in the west where they grow 'em big, everyone was surprised at the small size of the touring tennisers—Mrs. Fabyan, Bobby Riggs, et al.

Baseball Trend

So far the Yanks have played the Athletics four games and won half of them. . . . Last year they beat the Macks 18 out of 22 games.

Selected Shorts

Casey Stengel finally has given up and will shake up the Bees. . . . Since sticking 15 heats with Louis, Arturo Godoy has picked up more than $15,000 refereeing and making personal appearances. . . . Neil H. Oldfield, nephew of the famous Barney, will manage the gasoline and rubber rodeo Jimmy Lynch and his dare devil tire testers will put on at the world's fair this summer. . . . Zeke Bonura's N. Y. pals hated to see him leave, but all are glad he is back in the big league.

SEVEN CHANGES AT PIN TOURNEY

Columbus Bowler Sets New Singles Mark In Ohio Meet

TOLEDO, April 29.—Seven revisions in the standings and a new meet record gave evidence today of tonight competition during the third weekend of the five-week Ohio State Bowling association championship here.

Nick Cuccio of Columbus, a member of the Paul's Food Shop team, came up with the best individual performance—765 in the Class A singles which surpassed all previous efforts in the division. He put together games of 288, 243 and 234.

Other changes saw the Schmidt Beers of Toledo take over second in the Class A team event with 3,071; Stahl Shirts of Cleveland capture fourth in the same division with 2,963; Frank Steinhurst and Pat Schmidt of Toledo capture fourth in Class A doubles with 1,288; and R. Kalfas of Cleveland move into second place in the Class B singles with 665 and first in the all-events with 1,833.

Canton's Pure Milk team now holds fifth place in the five-man event with 3,042 and Springfield's doubles team of H. Van Dette and H. Schenk third place with 1,223 in that event.

Returns To Reds

INDIANAPOLIS, April 29.—The return of Catcher Dee Moore to the Cincinnati Reds was announced today by Leo T. Miller, president of the Indianapolis Indians. Moore had been with the Tribe on conditional sale.

LOMBARDI BIDS TO REGAIN HIS BATTING TITLE

Cincinnati Catcher Has Perfect Day Against Pittsburgh Club

CINCINNATI, April 29.—Ernie Lombardi, the Reds' catcher who was jibed the winter-long about the unfortunate blackout he suffered at home plate during the final World Series game last season, was on the trail today of the National league batting championship as the Reds went after three straight over Pittsburgh.

Holder of the title in 1932, Lombardi made fans take notice with a long-range circuit clout over the center field fence and hits which brought in three more runs for Cincinnati's 3-2 victory over the Pirates yesterday.

The b.g. backdrop gave fair warning of his intentions when rendered a 1940 contract but until he cut loose against Pittsburgh his batting this season had not been especially impressive.

Collect 15 Hits

The powerful round trip drive, which left no doubt as to the seriousness of his threat, inspired the Reds to feel out their batting strength and when the smoke cleared in the seventh Cincinnati had touched Danny MacFadden and two other Pirate hurlers, Rip Sewell and Oadis Swigart, for 15 hits.

Junior Thompson, who dropped a game to the Cubs last Friday in Chicago, allowed the Pirates only five hits. He walked Virgil Davis and Pep Young in the second and saw them cross the plate to give Pittsburgh a 2-1 lead but the invaders advantage was shortlived.

Paul Derringer, after his second victory of the season, was called by the Reds for mound duty today while Max Butcher, a fugitive from the Phillies, was to pitch for Pittsburgh.

"CHAMP" WINNER IN FIRST RACE

C. W. Cozad Pigeon Wins Opening Old Bird Flight

"The Champ," flying to the loft of C. W. Cozad, was an easy winner in the Salem Racing Pigeon club's first old bird race of the 1940 season from Millersburg, the 65-mile station yesterday.

"Pee Wee," from the loft of Jack Tilley, captured second place, while "Table Cloth," owned by Arthur Rohrer of Columbiana, finished third.

Liberated at 7 a. m., "The Champ" was clocked at the Cozad loft at 8:37 a. m., making fair time against a southeast wind. The winner averaged 1,107.85 yards a minute for a speed of about 39 miles an hour.

The club's next race will be from Mt. Vernon, the 100-mile station. Birds will be countermarked Saturday afternoon for shipment on the 6:03 train.

Results of yesterday's race follow:

A.A. Race Re-Run Of 1939 Contest

The American Association race is only 10 days old but already it is beginning to look like a re-run of the 1939 battle for first place between Minneapolis and Kansas City.

The Blues won a year ago and are favored to repeat but the Millers have shown sufficient power and pitching in winning seven of their first nine games.

Minneapolis moved into a game and a half lead yesterday with a double victory over last-place Columbus, 16 to 5 and 2 to 1.

Kansas City, although losing a full game to the Millers, stayed in second place by splitting a double header with third-place Indianapolis, winning the first 8-3 and losing the second 11-7.

Louisville defeated Milwaukee, 3 to 2, in their first tussle but the Brewers evened the count in the second engagement, 5 to 3.

Toledo and St. Paul likewise broke even, St. Paul taking the opener 14-6 and losing the after-piece 3-2.

TEAMS DISPLAY HEAVY HITTING

Columbia, Fourth St. and Reilly Win Grade School Games

Three grade school teams of the Mickey McGuire softball league combined tight pitching with heavy hitting to chalk up victories in games Saturday.

Pitcher Clotti of Columbia limited Prospect to two hits while his mates hammered out 24 safe blows to give Columbia a 24-to-3 victory.

Fourth St. stamped St. Paul, 26 to 3, as Pitcher Pridon set the Catholic school batters down with only five hits. Fourth St. sluggers hammered Pitcher Lanney of St. Paul for 22 hits.

Taking full advantage of nine hits, Reilly topped McKinley, 10 to 5. Pitcher Mayhew of Reilly turned in a five-hit mound performance.

BREAK 4 STATE RIFLE RECORDS

Medina Squad Shatters Two of Own Marks In Ohio Meet

COLUMBUS, April 29.—The Ohio Rifle and Pistol association put four new association records in its books today after 190 men ceased firing in the ninth annual Ohio small-bore rifle team matches at Fort Hayes.

The Medina Rifle club cracked two of its own old marks. Shooting 1,153 out of a possible 1200, it won the Class A team championship and the National Guard trophy. The old record was 1146.

The other record—1434x1500—was rung up when Medina captured the league champions' match, besting the previous high of 1433.

The Summit county league's 10-man team tumbled its old record of 2838-2900 when it fired 2873 to win the league all-stars match.

A new record of 38x100 for the standing position was made by Forrest Lawrence of Carrollton in a telegraphic match with Wyoming.

The old record of 96 was cracked when the Olatons fired 1932x2000 to win the match. Wyoming shot 1918.

The Class Championship was won by Mansfield with 1083x1200.

HOSPITAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED

May 12 Is Date Set For Annual Observance Here

In pagan Egypt, too, there was a form of hospital typified by the Temple of Saturn where faith healing was the only therapy used.

The Egyptian physician was probably the first to use such drugs as aium, peppermint, castor oil and opium. In the practice of surgery the patient was hit on the head with a wooden mallet to render him unconscious during operation. Surgery, however, did not include the opening of the body and even though an elaborate system of medicine was practiced it was not a rational system according to modern medical practice.
